

HUNT THE WEST

in Buffalo, Wyoming

Since the early years, Johnson County and the Bighorn Mountains have been a hunter's paradise. With vast acreages, and a multitude of species to hunt, folks come from hundreds of miles, even internationally, to fulfill their dream of hunting our beautiful area.

WHERE TO START

Whether you're new to the area, or have been coming here for years, we're here to help get you going in the right direction.

Going Solo: Looking to plan a self guided hunt? You're not alone. Many hunters take advantage of our vast public lands for big game success.

As you get started, be sure and do your research. Come on out for scouting trips and get a feel for the area you're hunting. Get familiar with the terrain and weather patterns you'll experience. Talk to the local Game & Fish and the Sports Lure for tips and information for your hunt area.

Get your GPS or Onx Hunt app fired up and ready to help you determine public and private land boundary lines.

Hire An Outfitter: Our area offers a multitude of hunting outfitters, ready to guide you to a successful hunt from big game to mountain lion and bears to upland game birds.

Do your research when choosing your outfitter. Look them up on the WY State Board of Outfitters and make sure they're legit. Give them a call and get a feel for them and their operation. Find out what a day of hunting will look like with them, what type of terrain you'll be hunting and how you'll be hunting it. Ultimately, choose the type of hunt and outfitter that will best suit your taste and ability.

A quality guided hunt will be an investment, so do your homework to make sure you book the best experience for you.

Weather: The weather in Johnson County can change drastically at a moment's notice, making that sunny day soaked in, snowy and cold. Pack light, but versatile.

PRO TIP: Layers are a hunter's best friend in WY.
